

December 5th
Touching the Past

SATURDAY EVENING, DECEMBER 5TH

Havdalah: 7 PM

Touching the Past: 7:30 PM, with Paul Hesse

Paul Hesse is a retired US Air Force Officer and former Assistant Professor of Chemistry of the US Air Force Academy, currently living in Fairfield, Ohio.

In 2000, he began studying the history and archaeology of the Ancient Near East (Biblical Archaeology) while living in Albuquerque, New Mexico.

While in Albuquerque, Professor Hesse became a docent of the Museum of Archaeology and Biblical History. There he developed a series of hands-on presentations that use ancient artifacts to illuminate the events, cultures, and peoples recorded in the Bible.

He is currently a graduate student of Archaeology at Trinity Southwest University and continues giving his hands-on presentations on Biblical Archaeology.

After a brief Havdalah on Saturday Evening, December 5th, Paul will share a variety of relics in his collection, including lamps, bowls, pitchers, coins, and weapons - all from Biblical times.
